

Skip to main contentr/GooglePixel ×

Search in r/GooglePixel

Create

r/GooglePixel • 2mo ago

JxK_1

...

Does anyone feel like AI is ruining the Pixel experience?

I honestly can't stand this phone anymore. I'd prefer the Pixel 7 to this 1000x.

Tapping the G pill now pulls up the laggy full screen page for AI, Google assistant sucks, taking screenshots sucks because you need multiple taps to edit anything because of AI, the AI button on the front screen right where I tap the Google search button, not to mention COUNTLESS other things the phone shoves in your face as AI capable that's useless.

I was originally going to make this post about tapping the Pill taking a second to load a new page pisses me off to no ends. But then realized a lot of things do.

1.1K

416

ShareJoin the conversationSort by: Best ▾

Search Comments

moileduge • 2mo ago

And it's going to ruin the price of the next Pixel too (and most electronics). Memory chips are gonna be expensive next year...

300

Reply

Ghostttpro • 2mo ago

If that happens Google is going to have to eat the loss. Or just stop making phones. Because if it's just like how it is with PC RAM. Not many will pay that high premium

71

Reply

unbrow4o9 • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro

Or they just put less RAM in phones. That's already being discussed, look forward to it next year.

36

Reply

RaccoonDu • 2mo ago

Pixelbook Go

The 10 might not the best pixel ever but man am I glad I got a "flagship" device when I did. I've never been one to ride my phone till it dies but I love the 10 form factor, i love the face bio, this is the perfect phone for me. I will replace the battery and ride this phone until its dying breath, I can't afford another phone, near that msrp, with this ram spec, at the ram prices we're about to see

EchoGecko795 • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create catch.

Narrow-Addition1428 • 2mo ago

As if anything useful runs locally.

Have you seen Gemini Nano? It's entirely useless. That is why Google has not shipped a chat feature.

2 more replies

Low_Couple_3621 • 2mo ago

1500 usd for Tensor G6 🤖

rnpowers • 2mo ago

Next year?! I went to buy RAM for a bunch of cheap Dell 7040 throwaway PCs ($200 a pop) and it was $155 for 32GB. Those units were $60 a few months ago.

We're cooked.

2 more replies

1 more reply

OmniscientApizza • 2mo ago

What isn't Ai ruining?

PunjabiPlaya • 2mo ago

Pixel Watch Pixel 10 Fold

Jensen's leather jacket collection

patssle • 2mo ago

Speech to text. The one thing that AI could actually improve and Google doesn't utilize it. So obnoxious.

Steph127xoxo • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

With now Gemini I find that voice to text is absolutely horrendous with auto punctuation. Because of the fact that it only works half the time. Then I have to go in and clear the catch just for it to work. I switched back to the assistant. OMG it works 10 times better. So Gemini is a piece of crap. They should have never made. Apple doesn't get rid of Siri. Why did Google have to make

Skip to main content

Create

7 more replies

captaincoltrane • 2mo ago

Yes!!!!

brycedriesenga • 2mo ago

Pixel 7

They do use it?

1 more reply

Logical-Still3170 • 2mo ago

I find the speech to text function works really well. Also with filling out forms you just have to say next to fill out the next box.

1 more reply

3 more replies

Aurailious • 2mo ago

One of its first uses at Google was translation. And I don't think its too bad as an alternative to stack overflow for simple questions and snippets on code, though I would only trust it on code I'm familiar with. I also use it in an app to generate tags on bookmarks.

But I do think it has a lot of use when its broken down from generic "AI" into specific algorithmic tasks like probability selection, image segmentation, evolutionary algorithms, etc, etc. But these are very specific. I hope in time there are valuable things it can do on consumer devices besides shitty art and chatbots.

ThunkAsDrinklePeep • 2mo ago

I also use it in an app to generate tags on bookmarks.

Say more, please. I'm intrigued.

Aurailious • 2mo ago

May not be exactly what you are expecting, but I use Karakeep as my bookmark manager. It has an option to hook into Ollama which I configured to run Gemma 3 12B on my 3080ti.

Skip to main content+ Create

3 more replies

2 more replies

3 more replies

amazzan • 2mo ago

putting a banana emoji button on top of photos my friends and colleagues text me, like I'm some kind of child who wants to turn a serious photo into nonsensical slop... I hate it

Majin_Sus • 2mo ago

Yeah the banana shit is wild. It feels so cheap

SSJRosaaayyy • 2mo ago

Im on a Samsung flip and i fucking hate that shit on my photos

shaneh445 • 2mo ago

Pixel 8a

And that's exactly what all this AI bullshit is. slopification

We've gone to the next level beyond keeping the peasants busy with gambling, drinking and sports

AI has the potential to keep you scrolling and brain rotting forever and so much worse

1 more reply

xd_antonisvele • 2mo ago

What?

amazzan • 2mo ago

<https://www.androidauthority.com/google-messages-remix-button-change-apk-teardown-3625542/>

Unspec7 • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro XL

Shit also makes my messages app randomly crash sometimes when trying to "expand" a photo so it fills the screen.

Skip to main content+ Createboxerdogfella • 2mo ago

Pixel 9 Pro

AI is ruining everything.

+ 7 more repliesNice_Illustrator2073 • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

I get that. When AI gets in the way, it's just annoying. My M7p has some AI too, but it's not shoved in my face all the time. It actually feels helpful when it pops up.

Gaiden206 • 2mo ago

Top 1% Commenter

If you don't want AI at all, your best bet is to probably install Graphene OS or buy another brand of smartphone.

Google is all in with AI, they started transitioning to an "AI First" company back in 2017, and in the same year released a paper for the "Transformer" architecture that every AI company uses for their Large Language Models (ChatGPT, etc)

Plant_Hater • 2mo ago

Yessssss take the Graphene pill it's a bit more effect in initial setup but it's soooo good 🍌 even if you're not a security risk or trying to fully degoogle whatever just being able to control app perms with granularity and sandboxed applications is so nice! And you get a lot of the beta security improvements sooner

DThr33 • 2mo ago

Pixel 8 Pro

I'd love to use graphene, but it's not compatible with google pay unfortunately.

FluffyGreyfoot • 2mo ago

Pixel 8

Another brand of smartphone won't work, cause the other manufacturers are doing the same thing with AI...

Custom ROMs are really the only option at this point.

+ 4 more repliesborderpac • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create

would always have a "Translate" button right there. Now I have to 3-dot-menu "Lens" and then click the tiny Translate icon.

JxK_1 OP • 2mo ago

There are SO many things that used to be one tap that now aren't.

Do not disturb pill.

Screenshot you used to be able to crop it instantly, now you need to tap the image, tap the pencil, then crop.

When copying image links from photos it used to copy it automatically for you. Now you need to click the copy button for some reason.

And many more.

+ 3 more replies

GreyFoxSolid • 2mo ago

You don't need to do any of that. You use the circle to search screen to translate now.

Thedapperpappy • 2mo ago

Black & White

I've disabled it on my 10 pro xl a few times. And then turn it back on, to realize I don't use ai stuff really at all. Debating on disabling it all again now.

JxK_1 OP • 2mo ago

Can you please let me know where I can find certain settings to disable ai stuff?

Thedapperpappy • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

Black & White

Settings > Apps > All Apps > AI Core, Private Compute Services and Android System Intelligence. Click them and disable. Then reboot.

tresforte • 2mo ago

Thank you

Regnad0 • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create[deleted] • 2mo ago

Honestly kinda cool that they allow it to be disabled.

mhyquel • 2mo ago

An off switch is cool?

This is where the bar is.

[deleted] • 2mo ago

The title of OP's post is about how AI is ruining the Pixel experience. A commenter posted how to disable AI entirely. That there is the option to just turn it all off is indeed cool, in the context of the post. No bar at all.

mxldevs • 2mo ago

Most software force you to just deal with it, so yes

+ 1 more replyAgreeable_Part3767 • 2mo ago

If I were you I'd delete this post. Cuz once AI takes over the world they'll see this and end you. 😂

mhyquel • 2mo ago

Starting to really doubt in AI's ability to escape the bottle.

+ 5 more repliesBroad-Candidate3731 • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro 1Tb

Gemini search is the best thing ever. I use it daily. For commands/ programming on Ubuntu is so good! Searching any topic is ten times more handy and summary of YouTube videos is godsend

+ 3 more replieslihispyk • 2mo ago

Yeah, it's one of the reasons I went with GrapheneOS tbh

Skip to main content+ CreatePixelbook Go

If anything, I'd expect grapheneOS to be booming again. Everyone in this thread who hates AI should learn it. Everyone loves to complain but doesn't do anything about it. You can't change the ram prices but you can make the most of the situation with meaningful changes you ACTUALLY can make like learning how to flash a custom ROM that benefits you

portugaltheanimal • 2mo ago

You don't really even need to know how to flash a custom rom. These days you just flash in your browser. Takes all of 10 minutes

1 more reply

Lorddragonfang • 2mo ago

Pixel 7a

Does anyone feel like AI is ruining...

Yes. The answer is yes, and you can't go ten feet online without someone telling you how much they hate AI.

BetaXP • 2mo ago

Not to be a contrarian, but I guess I haven't noticed because of all the AI features that have been implemented, I just...ignore them, or don't see them? They don't crop up in ways I use my phone, anyway. I tend to like Gemini as assistant, but even discounting that, I largely just don't see the other effects. I don't edit my photos much, my experience with the Google pill has been fine (again, don't use it much). Not even sure what other "AI" is in the phone.

2 more replies

Brilliant_Ask_82 • 2mo ago

No. Having gone back to Samsung when my phone was damaged, there are many AI features I miss from my Pixel 8. From caller ID, to annotation, circle to search, auto translation, removing bystanders and wind from photos/videos, and more

allonsy_danny • 2mo ago

Pixel 9a

It's ruining basically everything, so yeah.

6 more replies

Skip to main contentCreateandyooo • 2mo ago

The silver lining is that it may be a sign that they're getting desperate and hopefully the fucking bubble bursts sooner rather than later. MS also desperately shoving their AI slop everywhere, and fortunately Apple's "failure" in AI means it's not yet infected too much of iOS/iPadOS yet.

The sad thing is that simple things that Assistant could take care of are dying. E.g., Assistant on Android Auto / Google Maps is a shitshow. And with Gemini, continued conversations on Home devices is a paid feature. They killed that in phones a long time ago, and it's still limping along with Assistant on Home devices, but when switching (irreversibly) to Gemini that gets killed.

justagreenkiwi • 2mo ago

Unfortunately, consumer level AI benefits are only a secondary goal when it comes to developing the technology.

AI technology, alongside quantum computing is now primarily an arms race between developed nations and their relevant tech companies.

1 more reply11 more repliesSmilingProphet13 • 2mo ago

I haven't had as poor of an experience as you with the AI, but for your issue with the G Pill AI mode shortcut, you can turn that off by going to the Google App, Tap your profile pic, then Settings > Customize Pixel Search Box and turn off the AI mode toggle there, also the AI mode is only triggered by tapping on the magnifying glass icon, if you tap anywhere on the G Pill without icons, it'll still take you to regular search

[deleted] • 2mo ago

Was using the 7P and moved to the 10P and noticed no real difference in AI features. And holding the lock key is 🍷 as I use Gemini daily for home automation and work purposes.

Other than that, I don't notice it tbh but I'm not reliant on / living on my phone ever second of the day either.

4 more repliesExcellent-Device-133 • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create + 2 more replies[deleted] • 2mo ago

Idk man everything works for me and is pretty good

+ 2 more repliesHarley2280 • 2mo ago

No. I don't even notice it.

WatchfulApparition • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro XL

It doesn't ruin much for me. I barely use or engage with AI on this phone

drcopus • 2mo ago

You seem to be the only other person in this thread that feels the same way as me. Honestly the only time I interact with AI on this phone is the times I intentionally bring it up.

iamapizza • 2mo ago

Does Google Lens count? I've found that quite useful especially for reverse image search and translating text.

+ 1 more replyyaredw • 2mo ago

Very Silver

Same. Like, we can just not use the features, or disable them.

+ 1 more replyKaaji1359 • 2mo ago

There's tons like us. It's just the vocal minority of a very specific subset of power users on Reddit.

+ 1 more reply + 2 more repliesmhyquel • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create

But it needs permission to access the Google suite, then it needs permission to access some other thing, and then just one more thing.

I give it all the permission I could possibly enable.

Tomorrow, 9am. No reminder happens.

ebb5 • 2mo ago

I love the AI Enhance in Google photos, often times it's a one click edit that works very well.

+ 3 more replies

Maranth • 2mo ago

I'm on a P7 I'll trade you lol

-Jadi- • 2mo ago

I would be so much happier without any AI features honestly, they all suck

+ 1 more reply

Enchant23 • 2mo ago

AI is genuinely ruining the entire internet

+ 1 more reply

PersimmonBroad3792 • 2mo ago

I enjoy it.

Zealousideal-1017 • 2mo ago

I feel like it makes it much better

Stunning-Ad-2161 • 2mo ago

No, I like the AI features and use them as intended

Skip to main content+ CreateLaiches • 2mo ago

Unpopular take but I like the AI features and use them daily.

+ 2 more replieslalenci • 2mo ago

Not to be that guy, but you can probably turn it off in the settings. I've had almost all of what you're describing on the pixel 7 for like 4-6 months now and I like the AI for assistant.

StrigiStockBacking • 2mo ago

Pixel 8 on Google Fi

I have a P8 and turned it off. Now it works wonderfully.

JxK_1 OP • 2mo ago

Can you please show me where these settings are so I can disable them?

u/lalenci

+ 1 more replyunfrozenbeans • 2mo ago

I have the pixel 7 and I was considering upgrading to the p9p or pixel 10

But when looking into it it seemed like their main draw was their AI features which put me off so bad. So I ended up buying an iPhone

nathderbyshire • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Top 1% Commenter

Who only don't have AI shoved everywhere because they failed and are going to use Gemini. There's no getting away from this shit

unfrozenbeans • 2mo ago

True, its a matter of time. But google seems to have chosen AI as their main branding/ appeal. For now I'll enjoy apple's incompetence in the matter

+ 1 more reply+ 2 more replies

Skip to main content+ Createkrycek1984 • 2mo ago

It's interesting people say Samsung is bloatware when I literally have no AI in my face unless I really choose to in the settings.

25 more replies

amlug_ • 2mo ago

I found it so repulsive ended up installing r/grapheneos So far so good. Only issues I had were tap to pay doesn't working and it didn't restore from Google backups so I had to reinstall everything. But I'm glad I did. My fav feature so far is "scopes", I can give annoying apps that ask for permission to access files contacts etc empty ones. They still can't access anything and they stop asking.

EchoGecko795 • 2mo ago

Pixel 3XL + 6 / LineageOS

I just installed GrapheneOS on a Pixel 2 XL that I had laying around doing nothing, and honestly I am pretty impressed. I have used LineageOS in the past but it is not as privacy focused as GrapheneOS is. The biggest issue I was worried about is what payment and banking apps would work without having to mess with Magisk constantly and I was impressed pretty much everything worked even Square.

mlemmers1234 • 2mo ago

I mean most of the AI features are optional so not really, now if the question is whether people are getting tired of all the marketing surrounding AI with every OEM the answer is probably yes.

It doesn't matter which brand you choose, they're all trying to convince users to use these new features because they've been spending so much money on them.

Traditional_Limit236 • 2mo ago

Top 1% Commenter

If you do a little research you can do whatever you want with android and pixels specifically. If you don't like how it works, change it. I really hate how many people hate how android phones are by default...so what, that's what is the best part of android and what separates us from iPhone. Make changes, get a third party app. Root the phone. Whatever you have to do. Make your phone just the way you like. Lawn chair has been my launcher of choice for last 5 years.

8 more replies

Ganntak • 2mo ago

It was fun at first now I rarely use it

Skip to main contentCreate

I turn off anything I don't like and also don't use Google's Pixel launcher, so it's been less frustrating for me.

[deleted] • 2mo ago

Feliwyn • 2mo ago

gnardog45 • 2mo ago

Sooo...which phone can you not stand anymore? Did I miss that?

2 more replies

tarloch • 2mo ago

I don't feel like it's that bad. AI is clearly overhyped, but it's still incredibly useful. I had AI create a script that would have taken me a solid 30 minutes to create a few days ago. Magic Eraser is awesome for quick edits. Voice dictation to respond to a text message while I'm driving is absolutely fantastic. The list goes on really. Sure the daily summary of my nest cameras is ridiculously bad, but we'll get there.

2 more replies

bunaventure • 2mo ago

The best thing about Pixel phones now is that you can install GrapheneOS

2 more replies

slaia • 2mo ago

Pixel 8

Somehow that's our fate now. I bought a Motorola Edge 60 Pro and it's even worse. It has Gemini, Co-Pilot and Moto-AI, three instead of one! I just deactivated them, except the Gemini, which has been a reliable partner for me for coding (thanks to that free Gemini Pro I got with the new Chromebook)

ssagar186 • 2mo ago

You can disable the AI button on the search bar by the way.

thermalrust • 2mo ago

Create

more intrusive and in the way of everyday tasks and things that should be a single tap or swipe.

will either replace the battery in my 7 pro or get a OnePlus again for my next phone in a year or 2 if I can make this last long enough