

Skip to main content ./GooglePixel × Search in r/GooglePixel

Create

r/GooglePixel • 8y ago

dmziggy MOD Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Introducing Reddit Request for /r/GooglePixel

Hey Everyone!

On r/GoogleFi, I've provided a service called Reddit Requests to users having Google Fi customer service or general service issues. It's worked well, and to date I've been able to help hundreds of customers reach a resolution.

Today, I'm excited to announce I'm also extending this service to Google Pixel users to help quickly resolve some of the customer service issues that have been brought up over the past several weeks.

For those of you who are new/just seeing this for the first time, let me explain what Reddit Requests are (and are not).

Reddit Requests are requests for assistance from the community when:

- Support isn't providing the level of service you're expecting
- You've found an "high priority" issue that deserves the teams attention (safety/security related).

They're not:

- A way to harass me off of Reddit about [insert anything]
- A way to provide feedback to the Google team (you should do that here instead)
- A way to request anything Reddit moderation related (aka Meta topics)
- A way to ask for special favors, get my personal info, make requests about products I don't support, etc.
- A way to just have me personally troubleshoot routine issues (use the community first, then come to me).
- A way to bypass your permaban or shadowban to get support assistance.

Users who violate the above rules will be banned from the Reddit Request system.

If you have a reddit request related to a post that you've made on the community, you can now submit a form located here. This will create a Freshdesk support ticket that I will follow on my end to keep track of all of the users and issues that are on my plate at one time. I share this with the team at Google so that they can see and review the information you've provided, including Case ID's and RMA #'s so they can review your specific case.

The form now requests everything I need from you in order to have a smooth escalation process! Some notes...

- A support ticket number can be found from your support interaction with the Google Store team
- If applicable, an RMA number if you're having issues regarding a specific RMA experience
- A thread to a public post would be to your post on Reddit, or your comment related to your issue so I can 1:1 relate the two together.

I will do my best to reply within 48 hours during weekdays. If I don't, I will try to get to you ASAP. However, submitting a ticket does not guarantee a response or a resolution.

Starting today, I will start accepting escalations be made via this form. This method replaces users sending me Reddit PM's to get assistance. I'll also refer to this post for instructions going forward.

Skip to main contentCreate

Thanks so much!

All the best,

Ziggy

Moderator, r/GooglePixel and r/GoogleFi

Locked post. New comments cannot be posted.

Archived post. New comments cannot be posted and votes cannot be cast.

442

50

Share

EntropiaUniverseMMO • Promoted

The Real Cash Economy MMO - More than a game, truly unique. Play something that matters. Now on Steam.

Play Now

store.steampowered.com

Sort by: Best ▾

SpiderTechnitian • 8y ago

Pixel 3 128GB

Pardon my ignorance, but who are you?

It sounds like you are a Google employee who is offering to follow up with Google customers by looking into their Google Customer Support interactions after they feel they have received inadequate support. Is that the case?

You say this system is requests for assistance from the community, but then mention you could ask for Google RMA numbers and that you want security issues being reported here. So I'm just not sure who you are exactly (because it seems like Google would just want to do this all internally, so this makes you sound like some sort of rogue employee if you do work there?)

Again pardon my ignorance please, I'm just curious. But apparently thanks for helping so many people-that's always awesome

dmziggy OP • 8y ago • Edited 7y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Skip to main content+ Create

That's why I use Freshdesk to handle all the cases I'm monitoring (usually between 10-30 at a time) and keep track of all of them, mostly because Reddit PM's suck and because it's hard to share information and keep track of where cases are at. I share the info with my Google contacts (the man, the myth, the legend behind u/pixelcommunity and my leading lady behind u/projectfcm) so they can bring issues up with support leads, engineering, etc.

SpiderTechnitian • 8y ago

Pixel 3 128GB

Ohh okay, thank you for clarifying!

Hope your new-ish support system takes off! Thanks again for creating it

Thecrawsome • 8y ago

It would be extremely underhanded to the support process if he was a Googler, or from any company for that matter.

[deleted] • 8y agoMEECAH • 8y ago

Pixel 5

You're also the dev behind the super awesome mobile network monitoring/switching app (that anyone on project fi should be using) Signal Spy as well aren't you?

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

I help with it. But that's mostly Bryan's work. 🤔

mostlikelynotarobot • 8y ago

it would be great if you could mention that in the OP. I'm sure many had the same question regarding your credentials.

Thanks also for doing this!

[deleted] MOD • 8y ago • Stickied comment

Click here to access the Superthread.

Click here to access the Photos Megathread.

booeeyoh • 8y ago

Skip to main content

Create

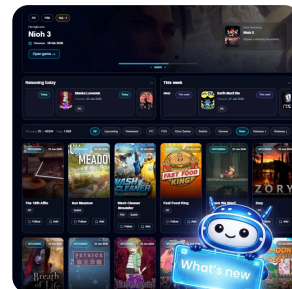

u/elyxo28 • Promoted

A clean way to track upcoming games and see what's new

Learn More

elyxo.gg

[deleted] • 8y ago

Do you hope that by working as a volunteer TC, Google will bring you on as a full employee? That'd be cool.

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Haha, I get asked this a surprising amount, but that's not my hope. Would it be cool? Totally. But the program is to help users and get awesome feedback from really passionate users (us), not to serve as a training or breeding ground for CS reps or engineers.

There have been a few notable cases where TC's have turned into Googlers or contractors. But they're few and far between and often on the extreme levels of expertise in something.

The closest Google office is also 2+ hours away from me and it doesn't have the product that in my fantasy dream world I'd want to work on (they're only in MTV). My family and SO are all here though and I'm not at a place in my life where I am up to leaving everything and everyone I love behind to pursue that. I love my job and my life as it is right now and my stuff I get to do as a TC fulfills me enough at the moment.

One fun perk has been to visit Google offices around the country. I've been to NYC, MTV and DC, all of which are very cool and unique in their own respects. For now, I'll enjoy the occasional visits and helping users like you. :)

JuniperJerry • 8y ago

Don't get me wrong more support is awesome but it's really troubling that if we can't get anywhere through normal support we have to resort to PMs on Reddit.

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

The idea is all of these cases are going through post-mortem afterwards so that they don't happen anymore.

Skip to main content

Create

ZippyDan • 8y ago

I am interested, vicariously, in whether Google plans to address the long-standing Pixel 2 (nonXL) panorama bug. I don't want to submit a form request because it is not actually my problem. I own a Pixel 2 XL.

But I do think this is is an important issue worth raising publicly. The fact that Google has ignored this issue on their flagship device for months is, honestly, embarrassing. Companies should be publicly shamed when they don't do right by their customers.

As a core feature of the phone, and as something that the Google team has left unaddressed, it seems to me that this qualifies as a "high level issue" and something that represents customers "not receiving the level of support they are expecting".

It would also be interesting to hear why Google has ignored this for so long.

I guess if you do have a Pixel 2 (I don't), then you should submit a Reddit Request about it?

dmziggy OP • 7y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Really late reply, but this should've been improved in the latest Camera app update. If you're still having issues or have samples, feel free to fill out a Reddit Request.

u/sports_eye • Promoted get notified when your ai agent fails 🤖

Learn More

glasshq.ai

[deleted] • 8y ago

Awesome news Ziggy, this is great!

lolSaam • 8y ago

I went through an 8 week ordeal with a faulty RMA and 0 progress to get my phone back, nothing was happening. One PM at Ziggy's request and I had a non-refurb replacement phone 3 days later...

Skip to main content

Create

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

I am just a passer of info. The magic is all u/pixelcommunity and his awesome support connections. Glad we could help make that right!

Achandab • 8y ago

Will Pixelbook have this option anytime soon?

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

If you bought it from the Google store I can help with support issues but that's about it.

Achandab • 8y ago

Ah I see thanks!

box_of_foxes • 8y ago

First of all, thank you for providing such a valuable service to the community! I hope you don't take this the wrong way, but I'm curious - why do you do what you do?

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Seems like a fair enough question. :)

Why do I do what I do? I've always been the kind of person who wants people to be happy. It's just kinda built somewhere into my DNA. I started a volunteer organization when I was in college, I help my friends out with their tech problems.

When I started on the forums 7 years ago, I was just learning about Google Docs, and then once I got better at Docs (and understood web apps better), I just posted to help others. Then I ended up migrating into products, including Pixel and Project Fi. Aaaaand the rest is history.

member_one • 8y ago

Cool. How would a broken power button from ubreakifix be handled? Other than the power button the phone is mint.

k5josh • 8y ago

P9P

Skip to main content

Create

What do you mean "from ubreakifix"? Did they break it?

member_one • 8y ago

Just never worked properly post fix.

Achandab • 8y ago

This is great news. However I tried so submit a ticket and it asks for project fi email. I don't have project fi.

dmziggy OP • 8y ago • Edited 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Ah I fixed the text - just your Google account.

Achandab • 8y ago

Thanks!

yeditor • 8y ago

Can Google fix my pixel stuck in bootloop if it's few months out of warranty? Its clearly a manufacturing defect but I have to bear the cost.

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Did you take it to uBreakiFix?

yeditor • 8y ago

I did. Their solution is to replace the entire motherboard for 400$ and Google is not going to pay anything. I can probably get a new phone for less than that.

milan187 • 8y ago

Hello, I'm in Canada and I purchased my 2 XL on ebay. Brand new in box. No issues with it or anything but I am wondering how can I get warranty if I need it?

I know for a fact that device is purchased from Google Store in Canada but other then that I don't have the buyer info, its also been 3-4 months.

Am I out of warranty in this case?

Skip to main content+ Createdmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

You need to get the warranty transferred from the original purchaser, or you won't have access to the warranty.

milan187 • 8y ago

Thanks. Guess I'm screwed and need to hope nothing will go wrong. When I asked for info he said his company bought it and can't disclose the account.

wheyyyyyy • 8y ago

I suppose this is US only?

dmziggy OP • 8y ago

Product Expert for Pixel, Google Fi

Oh no, this is for all the countries that are officially supported for the Google Pixel.

wheyyyyyy • 8y ago

That's great! Nice to know that there's at least one escalation point in case that day ever comes. Thanks for doing this!

tristanSchorn • 8y ago

Nope, I was just helped in Canada!

ciabattabing16 • 8y ago

A way to harass me off of Reddit about [insert anything]

If people need help with inserting anything anywhere, I think there's a phone number for that, not a Reddit sub. No need to harass anyone for it. Everyone needs logistics sometimes.

[deleted] • 7y ago[deleted] • 7y ago

Create

