Is Google really this stupid/inefficient?

I just received my order for a 9 Pro XL and they included the wrong trade-in kit ID number on the label for a 6 Pro and I am trading in a 7 Pro. I spoke with support and they are telling me that I have to return the entire phone and get a refund then place a new order and hope they include the right label this time.

This has got to be the dumbest process I have ever heard of and is going to cost them shipping 3 times instead of simply sending me the correct label. I will also now be without a phone for several weeks because this process is so horrible.

Google really needs to be ashamed of themselves with this and I am seriously considering dropping all 3 of my Pixels and Fi that I have been using for over a decade because of this.

Why do you need the correct label for your old phone?

If the models don't match, they just go to zero dollars. Ask me how I know. I pretty much hate Google now.

It sounds like shipping anything to them isn't worth the hassle. Which sucks cause I was looking forward to trading in my 8 for a 10 XL or fold.

Update: Had the case escalated and Google still refuses to do anything but have me return the phone and wait two weeks for the refund before I can order a new one and then hopefully get the correct label. I just decided to return it and will now be moving all 3 of my phones off of Google and finding a better service.

I know that you are in IT, but anyhow make sure you have proof (pictures and videos of the issue) and definitely don't forget the return receipt from FedEx or UPS. Read about way too many issues with returns. Good luck

On Saturday I bought an iPhone. Been using Android exclusively since 2008. P8P ran like shit after 15. I couldn't send or receive sms, mms, or rcs which was a major issue for a couple weeks on Google Fi which I've had for 2 years now. Support told me to suck my ass. So I went to Verizon and bought an iPhone. I feel dirty and this is the first time I've said it publicly lol. This kind of shit is why I'm done with Google. Yesterday I moved my email and drive to Proton and tomorrow I'll get Immich running with my Google photos and close down the account. So long Pixel, it was fun but I need shit to work. Plain and simple.
