

Skip to main contentr/GooglePixel ✕

Search in r/GooglePixel

Create

r/GooglePixel • 2mo ago

Danglt-dangdang

...

Pixel 10 Pro experience

To all Pixel 10 Pro/XL user, how do you liking the phone so far, especially on the overheating and battery department. Bonus if you came from base Pixel 8.

I switch from a pixel 8 to a Nothing Phone 3 recentl due to battery issue, while its great overall, i keep finding myself drawn to the 10Pro. But I kinda worry about the battery. Seeking y'all input.

Edit: Wow, I just woke up, got so much advice. Thank you so much for the inputs. Will go through and read them all.

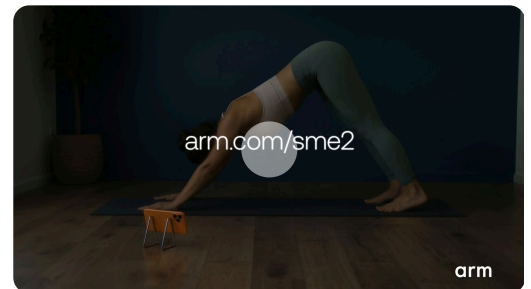

59

122

ShareArm_Compute • Promoted

...

Users don't say "nice inference pipeline." They say, "Wow, this feels fast." SME2 runs AI on the CPU and makes it 6x faster. Your app stops lagging, starts responding, and feels suspiciously good to use.

Learn Morenewsroom.arm.comJoin the conversationSort by: Best ▾ Search CommentsDrVegaPunk311 • 2mo ago

I recently upgraded from the base 8 to the 10 Pro XL. The display quality is excellent, and performance is exceptionally smooth for all functions, including scrolling, swiping, editing, and camera shutter. The camera itself represents a significant improvement. Following the December update, I'm consistently achieving 8-9 hours of battery life, including a dedicated 1 hour of gaming. I use 120Hz with full resolution. I haven't experienced any heating issues, even during gaming, with the Pixel 10 Pro. My Pixel 8 used to overheat considerably during gaming sessions, but the 10 Pro performs remarkably well in that regard. The device does get slightly warm during charging, but overall, it handles heat exceptionally well. Overall, it's worth upgrading from 8 base especially if you get on sale.

Danglt-dangdang OP • 2mo ago

Sounds good, thank you so much. Do you notice how long it takes to charge to 100?

Skip to main content+ Create+ 8 more repliesronnie1014 • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro

Went from a 6 to the 10 Pro and it's a huge upgrade. Even just the higher quality screen is nice. The 6 was always kind of plastic feeling and not very "premium" and the 10 Pro really pops and feels nice.

The size feels a lot better too. Not so tall and skinny.

Very snappy. Same pixel OS experience. 0 complaints here so far (except that it's a total dust magnet!!!)

Weed_O_Whirler • 2mo ago

The 6 was always kind of plastic feeling and not very "premium" and the 10 Pro really pops and feels nice.

Did you use either without a case, though?

+ 1 more replyYazars • 2mo ago

Battery life and heat are fine on Pixel 10 pro for me. Coming from a Pixel 7 pro, it's nice to have a smaller phone. Otherwise, there hasn't been a noticeable improvement for me in terms of day to day use (e.g. AI tools--I got my first and only magic cue card during a call this week after having the phone since 9/2025; nothing happened when I clicked on it). When I'm using the P10P, compared to my P7P, it has more random bugs in terms of apps acting strange and needing to be closed and reopened to respond normally.

ScytherCypher • 2mo ago

I have a 10xl, coming p7p. The heating issue is night and day for me

Accomplished_Waltz65 • 2mo ago

Chrome for me hangs occasionally

pastaandpizza • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

Pixel 6 Pro

8 pro to 10 pro here, and here is a real world example.

Skip to main content

Create

However, my 8 pro would frequently over heat doing this, especially outside in the heat/sun. I never feel the 10 pro feel like it's going to overheat or even got the warning about temperature. The only time heat is a problem for me is if I'm trying to charge it at the same time, then you can feel it get very hot and throttle performance.

Danglt-dangdang OP • 2mo ago

Wow, thats a considerable difference. The app prob more optimized for iphone too

pastaandpizza • 2mo ago

Pixel 6 Pro

Actually Niantic optimized/originally built for Android because they were born out of Google. Pokemon Go is known for being able to run on the oldest versions of Android/lowest tier Android phones available.

GundamOZ • 2mo ago

So what you're saying is the Tensor G5 isn't as bad as the Tensor G3 but it's far from Apple's A19 chip?

I think if Google used a Qualcomm modem like Apple did with the Snapdragon X80 and the latest Wi-Fi 7 those two changes alone would make your battery life so much better.

pastaandpizza • 2mo ago

Pixel 6 Pro

Yea Pokemon Go is constant geolocation and connectivity so efficient modems go a looong way.

u/Potential-Living-694 • Promoted espresso Pro 15 is BACK IN STOCK. Our best portable monitor is available in US and Australia, now!

Shop Nowespres.soat148 • 2mo ago

I'm on week 3 with mine coming from an iPhone 14. Not gonna lie, the battery life was horrendous for the first 2 weeks, but it improved significantly since the most recent update. It's easily an all-day phone now.

Skip to main content

Create

Hopeful-Brilliant473 • 2mo ago

10 Pro XL had been a rollercoaster. AI integration is fun, random app crashes dampen the fun, pictures have been awesome, phone loses connectivity frequently making texts and calls completely unreliable. Google support wants me to wait for a fix in a future update rather than replace the $1250 phone they sold me.

Basically I'm not sure I regret getting the phone, which means I kinda regret getting the phone.

horatiobanz • 2mo ago

Top 1% Commenter

AI integration is fun, random app crashes dampen the fun, pictures have been awesome, phone loses connectivity frequently making texts and calls completely unreliable.

That sounds exactly like every Pixel phone I've had in the last half decade. That's the normal Pixel experience.

Hopeful-Brilliant473 • 2mo ago

Well, crap. That's on me then

hey_you_too_buckaroo • 2mo ago

Pixel 6

Came from a Pixel 6. Tbh, I barely notice much of a difference. Advantages are that the fingerprint sensor works now. Also the phone doesn't overheat when playing games or charging. Aside from that, no real tangible difference. I dislike the rounded corners. Parts of my apps are now getting cut off by them.

sdrawkcab25 • 2mo ago

Came from a P7P, no overheating issues and battery lasts all day for me.

EstrayOne • 2mo ago

Pixel 8 Pro

P7P got so hot!

simplystriking • 2mo ago

Gemini assistant is still ass... Can't do basic shit and it's frustrating.

Skip to main content+ Createprescient14 • 2mo ago

Pixel Watch 3 45mm

I upgraded from a base Pixel 8 to Pixel 10 pro too, and so far things have been holding up good. I haven't observed any overheating. Battery life is decent. I try to keep my battery percentage between 30 and 80, so I do have to sometimes charge twice a day. I don't game, so I don't know how the phone holds up, but everything else has been fairly good.

sniperd2k • 2mo ago

Speaker phone button only works about half the time, it is weird.

joshisashark • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro XL

Now that you mention it, I've had the same problem as well, I just assumed I was mispressing or something lol

sniperd2k • 2mo ago

I wonder if everybody has it, or just a few of us?

6LSxCPU9 • 2mo ago

There's threads on here, tons of people having this issue, including myself.

Calvo1 • 2mo ago

Do it mate. The 10 series is great. I've come from a Zfold 7 and S25 Ultra. I much prefer it. It's just a joy to use

[deleted] • 2mo agoImHumanGarbage • 2mo ago

It's been great! The phone seems to keep getting better every update, I'm hoping that they will update the drivers in order to give performance another boost. Overall, everything about it has been great.

bardforlife • 2mo ago

Skip to main contentCreatewishka233 • 2mo ago

Went from base 7 to Pro XL. Loving it so far

u/elyxo28 • Promoted

A clean way to track upcoming games and see what's new

Learn Moreelyxo.ggphunky_1 • 2mo ago

I have noticed no issues.

All day battery life with typical usage and attending a couple of hour long meetings a day.

No overheating problems. If using the magnetic wireless charging it does get a little warm but nothing concerning with the charger that I have. I did hear the Google magnetic charger has a heat issue, I went belkin.

Performance seems a little better, overall it isn't a drastic upgrade over the pixel 8 pro. I wouldn't have upgraded aside from a hardware issue with the 8.

It is a fine device but not a huge jump in performance or specs compared to when the P8P was brand new.

All the pixel 10 exclusive features seem to be gimmicky AI stuff that I probably won't use, it may be useful if you use Google workspace and it fully integrates.

The free Gemini pro subscription that comes along with it is more of an upgrade than the phone IMO lol

locoluis13 • 2mo ago

Pixel 7 pro to 10 pro xl, no issue with overheating. Screen and battery life is great, but no noticeable improvement on camera performance. Low light performance seems poorer in some cases due to all the AI stuff.

hamcoremusic • 2mo ago

Skip to main contentCreate

DOA). Otherwise I don't have overheating or battery issues. I would probably make sure your phone isn't actually DOA and talk to Google Support for an RMA request under warranty.

Domonoadamu • 2mo ago

From 6pro to 10PXL, doesn't even get warm. Only charge it once a day. I use it all day long. Hell, even reception in the building I never get signal in get full bars.

MDX0622 • 2mo ago

Pro XL. I came from a OnePlus 8 Pro so it was a pretty decent upgrade. Performance is solid but I did notice once or twice there was a slight lag when playing a video in picture-in-picture mode. I don't have a big enough sample size to say it's a legitimate problem though. Battery life is good. With normal use throughout the day, including about 1 hour of wireless android auto during my commute to work, I get to 20% at around 8pm or so. Camera is fantastic. I don't really use Gemini but on occasion for editing photos. Removing stuff like lighting glare is quite handy. I don't use a wireless charger but haven't experienced any overheating

xeno111 • 2mo ago

I have a s25 ultra and the 10 pro xl.. I think the battery life on the pixel is similar / as good. Though I've always experienced worse battery life on Samsung phones specifically than everyone else seems to report on Reddit.

WolfmansBrutha • 2mo ago

I tried out the S25 Ultra for a month before deciding to go back to Pixel 10 Pro. My main complaints with the S25U were its size (nothing you can do about that), its battery life (I'd have to charge it by late in the day when I spent any significant time doing the NYT crossword puzzle) and how friggin HOT it got (same thing, while doing the crosswords.)

P10pro has none of these issues for me. And I'm super happy to be back to a smaller sized phone too.

toastSensei • 2mo ago

Another P8P -> P10P XL converter here. My top line...

- Mag Safe has been amazing...bed side, car, pop-top, hello hello. Also got me to upgrade my old wireless charging pads so...
- Using the Belkin travel charger with 25W....the speedy charging has been amazing. No significant heat issues. I did buy and return the Google Pixel charging stand, it was a DOA unit for me, the

Skip to main contentCreate

I've mostly ignored most of the nits that Google has baked into the phone, except for the 100x zoom on photo taking. It's...interesting. YMMV depending what kind of photo person you are.

- The whole trade in / data conversion / return process worked fine for me. No issues here in the US. I've seen various ouch stories here on reddit, but it was pretty smooth for me.
- Overall: phone is faster, better battery, better pictures, and Mag Safe makes it a better daily driver.

level7up • 2mo ago

Got a regular pixel 10 and it's been great. Wonderful battery life, surprisingly and it runs cool. Straight out of the camera shots look way better. It's not snappier due to excessive animation but there is no more lag like in the P7P. It also ends up being a bit heavier since I can actually use a screen protector due to its flat screen. The size is much nicer. But I probably would've gone with the S25 FE if it was a small form factor.

Sad-Intention-7377 • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

Battery life, excellent. Stand-by battery life, excellent. Heat issues, no more so than any other flagship so far. Photography, excellent. Videography especially in low light/indoors, not at flagship levels (will not rely on video boost as it should be performed on device). Notifications coming in late or not at all until the phone is unlocked, unacceptable. Scrolling or swiping can be annoying as well depending on the app because the fluidity or "stickiness" is not the same across all usage. Ridiculously slow wireless charging as well using the same equipment that decently charges any other phone at decent speeds.

BulkyApproval • 2mo ago

Very happy with my 10 pro. Only thing that bothers me compared to my s25 edge is Idac audio is not reliable. I can't push the bitrate to max 990/909 like I can on my s25 edge.

Everything else that matters to me is as good or better than my Samsungs.

puppyyaww • 2mo ago

10XL here, it's a great phone, very happy with it and great battery life. You'll do good if you get one!

TheGravyGuy • 2mo ago

I jumped from the 7 Pro, to the 8 Pro, to the 9 Pro XL, to the 10 Pro XL.

Battery life is still meh, but heating has been immensely improved. I used to be able to cook an egg on my 9 Pro XL after a long journey using Android Auto wireless, the 10 Pro XL just gets warm to the touch.

Skip to main content

Create

billdoughzer • 2mo ago

Maybe this was just a quirk and it's on my phone. But for some reason every time I tap the screen for the speaker during a call it doesn't immediately work. I have to double tap or triple tap it

trekyboi • 2mo ago

Same. It's a known bug. It's the app itself. The last update helped a bit but it's not completely gone.

Strong-Grapefruit330 • 2mo agoIvoAndric • 2mo ago

Terrible issues with the notifications. Either not coming, coming late or coming silently.

Otherwise great phone.

doakills • 2mo ago

Worse pixel experience I've had since pixel 4 xl..

Even with the latest update still plagued with screen lock ups, weird stuttering on apps and home screen, battery life isn't as great as I was expecting. Left overall wondering why I offloaded my 9 pro XL 256 model honestly.

Wiped my phone, reflashed, newest December updated. Same story for those wondering.

Could just be a ticket and replacement issue maybe but kinda dumb.

afc74nl • 2mo ago

I think the Pixel 10 Pros are way overpriced now given the chip and general specs, they are closer to a S25U or iPhone Pro price wise which is mad.

I have the 9 Pro XL, I really like it but I recently got the OnePlus 15 and there is just no competition.

If you have a Pixel itch and can find one some places are still selling the 9 pro/pro XL new for a decent price

NoHelp9544 • 2mo ago

With the trade-in and Gemini Pro (which I am addicted to) and the Google One credit, I upgraded from by Pixel Pro 9 to the Pixel Pro 10 just for the magnets.

Skip to main content

Create

Notice everyone who loves their phone came from another version of pixel.

r0ndy • 2mo ago

Returning after a week. Sooo many issues. Mostly permissions issues or back end problems. A ghost contact I can't delete. Can't get Gemini to work half the time the screen is locked. Trouble getting the phone to call or text by voice.

Mid level battery life.

Fun animations and eye candy built through the system.

I'm going to miss the pixel watch. Interface to me is way better than apple watch. Accuracy and other things can be debated.

Camera is slightly better then iPhone 13 pro, but maybe only 10% better. Noticeable but not impactful.

I was an Android user for almost 12 years before trying iPhone. I sold phones for almost 3 years and I'm very familiar and comfortable with both ecosystems.

For all the permissions that Android offers, I think it's almost funny that so many permissions have to be enabled for most services to work and in this Google harvest a significant amount of information.

I don't know if Apple or Android harvest more or who sells more...

borderpac • 2mo ago

My P10PXL battery has never gone below 50. And from 50 to 80 it takes 5 min to charge. And I almost never use the screen at full brightness it is so insanely bright. Was at a party outside taking photos w others and I was the only one who could see my screen taking photos in the bright sunlight. No overheating issues either. Love this phone.

WolfLikeMe80 • 2mo ago

No issues so far, aside from the WiFi update from October. Fingers crossed that it was just the update and not a hardware issue like the 8 Pro (my previous phone)... I am keeping an eye on it because I missed out of the warranty for the 8 to have the WiFi replaced.

miatapa • 2mo ago

I upgraded from a 1 1/2 year old Pixel 9 to the 10. Great deal with total cost $143 after trade-in (I had a $150 extra credit from my wife's 6A which had the exploding battery IMEI). The 10 battery is better than my 9, but it is new, so I expected that.

Skip to main contentCreate

1 7

Came from an 8P, and no overheating, gf had a 8A and no overheating either

heinzmoleman • 2mo ago

Went from P6P to the 10P. It's a night and day difference. The P6P would get so hot with heavy use that I'd be able to feel it through the screen against my fingertips. I haven't experienced this at all with the 10P. Battery life is much better, AI features are fantastic. Couldn't be happier with the phone TBH. Also, the sales and coupons made it a cheap upgrade.

AirportElectronic822 • 2mo ago

My pixel 10 pro xl has not over heated

harryhov • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro XL | Pixel Watch 4-44m

Phone is smooth. Photos and videos are amazing. Phone rarely gets hot and this is from someone that records games outdoor in the heat. My only complaint is that the battery is crap. I don't game or anything but use social media quite a bit. I need to top up to 80% at least once. Sometimes twice from 20% to get through the day which is about what I was doing with my 2 year old P8P.

Houseplantkiller123 • 2mo ago

Had mine for about two weeks, and while the phone seems good, I'm sending it back due to issues I've had with some of the promos and a bad runaround from Fi support.

fiserlaci • 2mo ago

Had the phone for a week, came from Pixel 6 which went into brick mode.

No overheating problems. I charge the battery to 80% only and never had battery issues during the day.

OkWanKenobi • 2mo ago

I know you asked for the pro, I have the 10 pro fold and I've had it for about a month now. I'm already ready to move on. I like new features, sometimes they're novelties, and sometimes they can prove really useful.

So far the fold is just kind of pointless to me. Even the novelty of the folding screen doesn't do much for me. I like being able to split screen apps, but that's about where the usefulness ends for me. To say I have

Skip to main content+ CreateHereComesPapaArima • 2mo ago

Essential PH-1 -> Pixel 6

Switched from a 6, been a great experience so far. While others might be saying the phone is a nice size, and it is - it's REALLY slippery. The flat sides make it even more slippery. The official silicone case is slippery as hell too...

Other than that, amazing experience. One thing that I've found really convenient is that face unlock is really good and fast. The overall experience is just a Pixel, but better. Not a huge change in my life.

One thing I will say is that the new camera app is a bit...loaded. I still haven't figured out how to adjust the brightness of pictures I'm taking. Still very used to the Pixel 6 camera. I'll get better at it, but I'd appreciate any tips.

brendanvista • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

I upgraded from the P8P. The P10P XL is doing much better in thermals and battery. Ampere says it's about 10c cooler in every situation, scrolling social media, navigating in the car, charging, etc. I'm pretty pleased.

I'm really hoping that when summertime rolls around again the phone will keep staying cool, and be able to charge. On a tropical vacation, I would usually have to put my pixel 8 Pro in the refrigerator to get it to charge to top up before dinner.

MineVideo86 • 2mo ago

Pixel 8

10 Pro was really good on battery and heat, but the recent update killed both of those so I'm now back to Pixel 8 levels of heat and battery usage :(

keithitreal • 2mo ago

Coming from an old Poco F3 very recently.

Biggest bugbear for me is the niggles present when using third party launchers.

I also use a gesture app and the recent gesture won't activate at times. This is true of all gesture apps - it's an android issue.

The fact that third party launchers are struggling a bit on Android these days (regardless of phone) suggests to me that the vendors are surreptitiously trying to keep people on stock launchers.

I've had no issues with battery life or heat thus far.

Skip to main contentCreate

(previously wasn't really interested in it, but after trade-in and the gemini pro year subscription, which I'd be paying for the google on 2TB plan anyway), it was essentially no additional cost.

So far it's...basically the exact same experience as my 9 pro xl. Which isn't a bad thing, but aside from all the promos/credits, I wouldn't bother.

I used a pixel 8 in the past--it's not really a fair comparison to the 10 pro xl though. Overall I would call the 8 to 10 pro (or xl) a meaningful upgrade.

Never had issues with overheating on it--nor the 9 pro xl. Battery life is basically what my 9 pro xl was, which was always fine. Not bad, not noteworthy, but within expectations. Zero issues. I use mine on mostly cellular 5g data all day and have had zero issues with battery life. The modem has improved from the 8 series in that regard.

I do like the built-in magnet, I've decided to just use a wrap instead of a case for the first time on a phone ever. Needs a skin/wrap because, in my opinion, the phone is too slippery. Did opt for device protection for a period of time though, just in case I drop and break it.

bebeluiz • 2mo ago

i had 7 and now have 10pro XL, a GREAT difference

A side from the obvious that ill talk later, i'll say something more different in my use:

- Build quality is INSANE, everybody touches the phone and says "wow, this feel nice",
- Screen is a delight, i live in Brazil so Sunlight is strong here, the extra nits on outside is very very good.
- No more heat issues, again, i live in Brazil so 32°C++ is common here, Pixel 7 was awful, if i take 3 pictures in sunlight, the phone start to lag because it heat soooooo much.
- 5x telephoto is the best in the market in Brazil (Samsung and iPhone) period, its beatiful take portrait shots using that.
- 50x-100 pro res zoom is very fun to use, and always impressive in moon shots.
- Battery is very very good, if you guys complain about battery, something is wrong, 6h+ SoT using 80%+ brightness is insane in my opinion.

Downsides:

- very expensive phone to use outside US, there's like 5-7 exclusive US features that dont work here in Brazil.

joshisashark • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro XL

Came from an iPhone 13 Pro to the 10 Pro XL, but I am familiar with Pixel (previously owned the 5, 2 XL, and the Nexus 6P). I've had it for a month as of tomorrow.

No overheating issues. It does get slightly warmer than an iPhone does when charging, but it's not enough to be a concern.

Skip to main contentCreate

Battery has been meh for me. It is hands down better than my iPhone was (battery health at 86%). With the Pixel I get through a full day of commuting (~1 hour each way on train), with 30-40% remaining, whereas the iPhone would lose 40% just on my way to the office.

When I'm working from home though is a different story. The pixel seems to be fine unplugged overnight (~4-6% of battery drain while idle in bed time mode), but when idle while I'm working it seems to have a pretty bad battery drain related to WiFi/CPU. I'm not even hitting 2 and a half hours of screen on time during the day and also ending around 30-40%. I do cap at 80% charge the night before working from home, but I'm losing 40-50% with little SoT and only with 24 hours of time between each charge. I use my phone less heavily when at home, typically I'm just responding to WhatsApp messages or scrolling Instagram on it during quick breaks. But I'm getting a theoretical 5 to 6 hours SoT with a full charge, which seems par from my Pixel 5, when I think I should be getting at least 7?

I did try to diagnose it, and it was actually worse until I turned off WiFi scanning (it was ~4 to 5 hours of theoretical SoT at that point), but it's still not solved. My suspicion right now is that it has something to do with my ISP provided router that has pretty much no settings that can be adjusted, so I'm going to try and connecting it to my old one. If that doesn't solve it though I may just start ignoring it/stop looking at battery stats because ultimately it gets me through the day, which is all that really matters.

+ 2 more repliesfhdlee • 2mo ago

Mine is absolutely fine. I'm not experiencing any issues.

NeedHelpMakeClear • 2mo ago

From a base 8 pixel. Feels very similar to me. But, and I made another post about this the ear piece for phone calls is not good. Like actually not good. It's bad waking on the street I can hear what my caller is saying. Speaker phone is good but I don't always want to use speaker phone. When I'm in quiet the calling is okay but ppl near me can hear my caller. It's just not very good. Could be my unit. Not many people responded saying they had the same issue. It's my biggest complaint. YMMV.

Therasse • 2mo ago

I came from the Pixel 8, with the 9 Pro Fold in between, and I love my 10 Pro.

Performance, battery life and temperature are all fine, the cameras are amazing (the zoom performance is a bit lackluster though) and the feel of the phone itself is much improved.

absolutelybored • 2mo ago

Skip to main contentCreate

need to upgrade from my 7 since the battery has died. the battery degrades fast on my 7 so my next phone will be a OnePlus or something with a gigantic battery.

Battery on the 10 pro is currently just acceptable, gets me through a day at work with maybe 20% left? I don't have high hopes for its longevity, tbh.

Dkasjan • 2mo ago

Cześć,

Ja po przejściu z pixela 8 na pixela 10 pro napisze Co że bateria zawsze starcza na dzień, nawet pod dużym obciążeniem. W pixelu 8 często musiałem doładowywać by wytrzymał. Ogólnie świetny telefon, za fajnym aparatem.

Adj1619 • 2mo ago

I watched a reviewer say get the 256gb version of the phones. Because the 128gb uses a slower read and write speeds apparently and might be a slower experience long term. I'm looking to upgrade from a Xperia 1 iii and the pixel 10 pro seems to be the only phone that interests me. Just waiting for a deal I like to pull the trigger. Had a pixel 3 xl and loved it. But my. Xperia 1iii has been great phone and still works just fine. Was going to get the new Sony. But just way to expensive for hardly being a upgrade and some ways a downgrade.

CouchFatty • 2mo ago

For me the battery has been insane on this phone. Better than my 17 pro. Alot of hours on wifi but still easily 10 hours.

anmolanjuli • 2mo ago

Upgraded from iPhone 13, no complaints except mediocre battery life. Could be due to my apps and widgets.

daheufster • 2mo ago

Coming from a p8p and I love the p10p-xl. Never once felt hot, it feels constantly smooth as butter, looks great (i have the porcelain version) and feels great. The screen ratio is slightly different (a bit wider) which perhaps is not bad but makes the phone look more like an iphone. Which i dislike a bit, but it isn't annoying.

chic_luke • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ Create

The 2 XL stays my favourite but, unfortunately, its days are over. Seems like an OK successor so far? It's boring. I installed my apps and it works about the same, with most things being slightly better.

The software is nice, the hardware is okay but not the best in class, it shoots up nice pics with little effort, I still own my device (bootloader can be unlocked). Just about meets expectations.

I do hope Google improves the hardware in future generations though, or a serious competitor for who wants a Pixel-like experience pops up.

cool_slowbro • 2mo ago

Pixel 10 Pro here. The swiping performance seems extremely bad to me. I come from 2 Samsungs, a Sony, OnePlus, and even the Nexus 5, and this is the only Android I've owned with such bad swipe... detection? Inconsistent acceleration? It's hard for me to even describe. The phone seems to dislike short quick swipes, least the way I'm doing them.

Rest of it seems solid though, but the aforementioned issue is completely ruining my experience.

+ 2 more repliesProfessional-Neck356 • 2mo ago

The Bluetooth and Wi-Fi stopped working on mine 3 months after purchasing it. It is related to an issue with the motherboard which is not available to be replaced. It's been weeks of working with a repair shop and Google even though it is still under warranty and customer service has been poor, repeatedly attempting to avoid replacement even though it is a manufacturing issue. Would not purchase it again which is unfortunate because I liked my 7 previously. If I ever get a replacement device, I will use it but not go Google again after this experience.

childroid • 2mo ago

Pixel 5

Got my 10PXL, upgraded from the base 7. Better in every conceivable way. Battery is great! That was the one thing I was most eager to upgrade, and I am very happy.

Magsafe/Pixelsnap is awesome. 100x zoom is weirdly good and I would say a highly practical use for genAI. And battery. Those are the big three improvements I'm noticing.

c00lguyal • 2mo ago

I just switched from iPhone 15 Pro to Pixel Pro last month. I've loved everything about the phone. The last Android device I used was an HTC Evo so I've been enjoying re-immersing in the Android operating system. But the battery life has been an issue for me. Very odd for a brand new device to be draining so

Skip to main contentCreate

1 more reply

Opposite_Sentence_72 • 2mo ago

I have recently shifted from Samsung galaxy ultra to pixel 10pro. A mixed experience,frequent black outs with black screen. Another irritating feature is screen size on receiving calls, only see calling on the top of screen unlike of galaxy where full screen was seen..Even worse , occasionally only ring tone heard,nothing on the screen. Only solution is Force stop and restart. Any suggestions.

WinterCali • 2mo ago

From Pixel 8 to 10 Pro. I have this phone for a week and absolutely hate it. I missed my Pixel 8 which is on the way back to Google for a trade-in atm.

I don't have overheating and battery issue yet, however I had a fuzzy/ snowy screen on the second day of using the phone. I just updated the system so we'll see about that.

1 more reply

Sunny_Neuroxa • 2mo ago

Camera quality is inferior to pixel 8 pro. Don't know why.

1 more reply

lister3000 • 2mo ago

Other than the wireless charger support issues it's been great

trekyboi • 2mo ago

I've had a base pixel 6,7, and 9 lol. Now I'm on the 10 pro xl. I'm definitely blue collar and break phones at work all the time. The battery life is better than all three of those. Never had an overheating problem with it but then again I never did with the 9 either. I would say the 10 and 9 are basically identical except the 10 gets some extra software perks. The only complaint is that both are EXTREMELY picky about wireless chargers.

2 more replies

FlakyBandicoot9 • 2mo ago

Skip to main content+ CreateAfraid_Ostrich2109 • 2mo ago

Pixel 7 Pro

Went from the Pixel 7 Pro to the Pixel 10 Pro XL, and I'm really enjoying my upgrade. Everything is better, faster, smoother. I really enjoy the haptics on the 10 Pro XL. I also upgraded my Mom from the 6a to the Pixel 10, and she is also enjoying her upgrade. #TeamPixel

LSDand2Es • 2mo ago

I went 8 pro to 10 pro and am impressed on all fronts, then my S21 ultra into the pixel world was an equal step change, so expect that every time now!

6LSxCPU9 • 2mo ago • Edited 2mo ago

I came from a Pixel 7 pro to a pixel 10 XL. Screen size and battery size/life are pretty much the same. Overall day to day performance for basic shit like internet, chatgpt, social media is slightly better on the 10 XL. But I have a few really annoying issues with the 10 XL.

1. The speaker phone button doesn't work or is super delayed, I have to hit it like 4 or 5 times than it finely goes to speaker. This is a widely known issue and appears to be some kind of driver issue with the hardware since it hasn't been fixed yet.
2. I have issues with the S key randomly. I'm pressing S, I can see and feel the phone register the tap, but it doesn't actually type it out. This was happening in chrome intermittently and recently happened in the calendar app. I thought it might be just .e, but recently a few people chimed in with the same exact issue, so again, some kind of driver issue I'm guessing similar to the speaker phone button problem.
https://www.reddit.com/r/GooglePixel/comments/1oef8rh/pixel_10_xl_s_key_in_keyboard_not_working/
3. Google home notifications not working. To this day, like the above issues, some days it works and some days it doesn't. Probably the worst issue out of the 3 as I'm relying on Nest cameras for security reasons.

Outside of that, if you're only worried about battery and performance, I'd say upgrade as it will likely be better than your 8, but be prepared to have some odd issues. The above 3 issues are absolutely issues on Google's end and I can prove. My purely opinion based issue is my typing grammar has shit the bed, I can't prove this is a pixel 10 issue really, but it amazes me how often I have to proof messages and emails now, due to the key issues mentioned above I want to blame the phone, but I can't prove it unless I go side by side with another phone, which is not something I'm willing to dive into at the moment.

NukedForZenitco • 2mo ago

That S key issue sounds super weird. Is it only happening on certain apps?

+ 1 more reply

Create

too slippery with dry hands

6LSxCPU9 • 2mo ago

I like my Spigen case, after a few weeks of use it's not that slippery imo, but if your hands are chalky AF idk. <https://a.co/d/grJqjiY>

1 more reply

Dengar73 • 2mo ago

Great camera battery fine only issue I have is I find mobile data slow I have full signal 5g and it just slow sometimes or struggles to load up certain web sites switch to wifi and fine but then my last pixel had reception issues but love the cameras so read that pixel had sorted this but sadly find it's performance erratic maybe it's my surroundings but my wife has no issues with her phone at all on same web sites when mine is misbehaving