Update on my Pixel 8 green line issue and Google repair service

Experience

For context, my Pixel 8 developed the well known green line on the screen. Since it is a manufacturing defect, I sent it to Google for repair under warranty. Instead of fixing it, they claimed I had "other damage" and refused to cover the screen unless I paid 163 euros for a supposed issue with the lower speaker mesh. Full story here.

Quick update. Today I went to a local repair shop and explained the "speaker mesh problem." The technician could not believe it. He said the piece costs just a few cents, the only challenge is sourcing it, and the repair would be around 10 euros total.

This makes me even more frustrated with Google. They quoted 163 euros and are using that as the condition to fix the green line under warranty.

Does anyone know how I could escalate this with Google so they review the case? I have already tried phone, email, and chat. Or is this just a normal experience with their repair service in Europe?

UPDATE

Just received my phone back from the repair center in Poland without any repair done. I took some photos so you can see the so-called "speaker mesh problem." I am honestly speechless. This is the issue that Google is quoting 136 euros to fix before they will honor the panel warranty.

Currently using my wife's old iPhone 11. I think I'm on the same boat. Last time buying a high-end and last time trusting a Google phone.

What did they told you to refuse the guarantee ?

It's a shame, because I really liked the phone.

I am interested to see how is this story developing. May I please ask if it is appropriate to share which is the country?

I am in Germany, my colleague got the same problem. he never used a case, so there was a lot of small scratch on the side. the google person said, they would not repair the display, if they not repairing the body as well. cost him more than 150€ ( i am not exactly remember).

still i decided to buy the 8 last January, hopefully i dont need repair. if yes, might need to move to Samsung maybe.

That sucks. I think they use everything they can to not honor the guarantee. No the other side, the phone is a great one. Just wish the customer support was better.

yes, after they ruin my old 4a.. i still want their ecosystem. The phone is great, loving the new looks Android 16 QPR1. but if this time fails again, i need to move on i guess.. i expect my Pixel 8 should hold at least 4 years like my 4a.. let see..

must also repair the small scratches on the back cover and frame, charging me 139€+ taxes. Google doesn't have an official email address where I can send a complaint, so the italian consumer protection can't help me. After Pixel 5, Pixel 6 and this Pixel 8, I'm not going to buy any Google device anymore. This is a really SHAME. Bye google

They told me that i can send the complain to the Store where i bought the phone. In case it helps.

But i am seeing a lot of stories about that Poland center...

Isn't that just some dirt in the speaker?

Graphic_Kore OP • 5mo ago

I would think so, but according to the repair center that is 140€ worth of damages

animuz11 • 5mo ago

Remove the dirt and send it back for repair

Bisoullove • 5mo ago

Same issue here. They are using a supposedly damage on the back glass to make me pay ~160€. They don't deny that the screen issue is their fault, they just say they don't perform partial repair (whatever that means).

support. After researching the full process they told me they would repair it and send it back to me. I'll keep you updated! Cheers
